ATAWHAI NON-UNIFORM DAY - THIS FRIDAY

Tēnā koutou katoa o Te Atatū Intermediate whānau

In our latest newsletter, I emphasized the fundamental values that form the foundation of everything we do at our school. This Friday, 8th March, we aim to actively demonstrate our value of Atawhai (displaying kindness, compassion, and consideration for others) by hosting a non-uniform day to show support for a member of our Te Atatū community - Simon Clark, whose son attended TAI. The family is currently facing the challenge of covering the costs of medication that is not government-funded, as featured in the Herald.

With the family's consent, we are initiating a fundraiser to gather funds for treatment options that could potentially extend Simon's life, allowing him more time with his cherished family and creating lasting memories together. While we typically request a gold coin donation, any additional contributions would be greatly appreciated, and all proceeds raised will directly benefit the Clark family.
